Current Job Title/Organization Chairman and CEO/Patient Care Technologies, Inc.

Career History Co-founded PROHECA, an early pharmacy software company, in 1974. Sold the company in 1981 to National Data Corporation (NDC). Headed the resulting health care division of NDC until 1987 and was NDC's President and COO through 1990. Left to co-found Patient Care Technologies (PtCT) with Steve Miller '74. PtCT has developed electronic patient record systems for home health care and related fields utilizing a hand held computer technology developed by MEDITECH and manufactured by Data General. Serve on the boards of EPTI, a developer of rapid charging systems for electric vehicles and portable electronic devices and SeaLite Sciences which has developed diagnostic kits utilizing a proprietary bioengineered light emitting protein.

Spouse: Single
Children: None

Other: MPP, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University

Major Personal Events since 1969:

Finishing graduate school, moving to and from Washington, starting our company.....

Current Job:

In 1989, I founded Alceon Corporation, an environmental consulting firm that specializes in human health and ecological risk assessments for hazardous waste sites regulated under federal and state laws. I also teach at the Boston University School of Public Health as an Adjunct Associate Professor. Running a company and teaching graduate students are exhilarating -- like the old story of taking a sip of water from a firehose!

Career:

What a long, strange trip its been! After graduation, I worked for MIT at Project Mac and then the Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program. After an MPP degree, I did my Ph.D. at the Parson's Laboratory in environmental engineering and water quality management. From 1978 through 1981, I worked as a staff member at the President's Council on Environmental Quality in Washington. When Mr. Reagan demolished our agency, I returned to Cambridge and have consulted on environmental problems since then. Whodathunk that all this adds up to wonderful preparation for a career that did not exist when we went to school??

Volunteer Activities, Hobbies, and Interests:

I listen to lots of music and follow national politics, especially issues related to the environment. I share a wood shop with a friend, thereby making lots of sawdust and a few pieces of furniture. I read psychology, poetry, and mathematics for enjoyment. I attend Christ Church Cambridge.

Most Vivid MIT Memories:

The sheer, glorious energy of the people and the place
